Housekeeping:

On this day we went over two questions as a team and then presented our answers to be written on the board. We talked about when we feel creative and if an AI could support or replace us. We also went over "Dada" which is a form of art that isn't considered "normal". We learned that most of our creative style can't be fully replaced with AI but, some parts may. A key word for these points is "Experience"

Reflection:

It was a quick day of class with interesting discussions over the questions we went over. I also learned to never confuse a Swiss man for a French man and vice versa or it could get ly.
